

Akihiro Murakami

Japan Head of Equity Quantitative Research
Nomura

Akihiro Murakami has been chief Japanese equity quant strategist since March 2012. He conducts research and develops investment models across the full spectrum of quant strategies. He has recently developed investment strategies based on companies' and investors' behavioral biases and carried out analysis into methods to limit downside risk. He was ranked second among quant analysts by Institutional Investor and Nikkei in 2012.