

Jordan Rochester

G10 FX Strategist, Nomura

Jordan Rochester is an FX Strategist in the G10 Currency Strategy Team, covering the foreign exchange markets with a focus on the UK and Switzerland and also provides quantitative analysis as a part of the FX Quant Team. His recent focus has been on the level of political uncertainty embedded in markets. Jordan also covers broader G10 FX macro.

Jordan joined Nomura in 2010, and holds an MSc in Economics and International Financial Economics from the University of Warwick. He also holds a BSc in Economics from the University of Bath.